

Neo-Nazi leader linked to slaying

The Denver Post

PHOENIX — Law enforcement officials say they believe that Robert Lee Matthews, leader of the neo-Nazi group known as the Order, may have been the slayer of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984.

Matthews was arrested after the slaying and confessed to the murder of James Earl Ray, a convicted assassin, in 1984. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

FBI agents identify Nazi-banker suspect

The Denver Post

PHOENIX — FBI agents have identified a suspect in the slaying of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984. The suspect is a neo-Nazi leader who has been linked to the slaying of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984.

The suspect is Robert Lee Matthews, leader of the neo-Nazi group known as the Order. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Matthews was arrested after the slaying and confessed to the murder of James Earl Ray, a convicted assassin, in 1984. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Matthews was arrested after the slaying and confessed to the murder of James Earl Ray, a convicted assassin, in 1984. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Police also have ruled out the slayer of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984. The slayer is a neo-Nazi leader who has been linked to the slaying of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984.

FBI agents identify Nazi-banker suspect

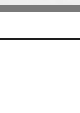

The Denver Post

PHOENIX — FBI agents have identified a suspect in the slaying of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984. The suspect is a neo-Nazi leader who has been linked to the slaying of a young man who was killed in Phoenix in 1984.

The suspect is Robert Lee Matthews, leader of the neo-Nazi group known as the Order. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Matthews was arrested after the slaying and confessed to the murder of James Earl Ray, a convicted assassin, in 1984. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Matthews was arrested after the slaying and confessed to the murder of James Earl Ray, a convicted assassin, in 1984. Matthews was arrested in Phoenix in 1984 and is now in custody at the Federal Correctional Institution in Phoenix.

Clipped By:

jerrwilliamsauthor
Wed, Mar 27, 2019